C. Of C. Selects Ambassador

J. J. Newberry Chosen For 1952 Honor

John J. Newberry, founder and chairman of the J. J. Newberry Co. chain stores, has been named a "Pennsylvania Ambassador" for 1952. Mr. Newberry was nominated for the high honor by the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce.

He is one of 25 former residents of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania who went out to achieve fame in other sections of the nation.

Mr. Newberry's first store of the giant chain retail organization was founded by him in Stroudsburg. The "No. 1 Newberry Store" is located at 622 Main St., Stroudsburg.

Currently, the chain store corporation, at Mr. Newberry's direction, is creating a modern new store at Sixth and Main Sts. involving the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Mr. Newberry is now a resident of Englewood, N. J.

Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce, operating through a special Pennsylvania Week Committee, will invite Mr. Newberry here the week of Oct. 13-19 to be honored as a Pennsylvania Ambassador and to receive an aluminum plaque and a Commonwealth scroll.

The State Chamber of Commerce released the selections after a meeting of a state-wide committee headed by I. S. Sahli, Beaver Falls. Some 87 nominations had been submitted.

Since 1948, ambassador awards have been presented to 93 persons in recognition of "outstanding achievement in the best traditions of the commonwealth." Only former Pennsylvanians now residing out of the state are eligible for the awards.

Fields of business, religion, conservation, education, entertainment, government, industry, medicine, military, science and writing are represented.

The list with home city includes:
Ann Crowley, New York City, actress in Broadway plays "Seventeen" and "Oklahoma." (Scranton).

Maj. Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, Washington, D.C., director of military assistance, Office of Secretary of Defense, and World War II leader. (Honesdale).

Shooting Feud Breaks Out

Bluefield, W. Va. (AP) — This Southern West Virginia mountain area waited tensely yesterday to see if it had a 20th century version of the Hatfield-McCoy shooting feud in its midst.

Gunfire already has broken out three times between the mountain clans of Howerton and Blankenship. A man of each family has been wounded.

The shooting reminded old West Virginians and historians of the Mountain State's celebrated Hatfield-McCoy family war which blazed intermittently for 19 years before the turn of the century.

The fighting in that famous battle of the clans, in which 100 died, was said to be over ownership of some pipes.

The rifles, shotguns and pistols of the Howertons and Blankenships are smoldering across a piece of property. It's owned by 50-year-old Howard Howerton. The Blankenships claim the right to travel through the property to get to their homes.

Wafdists Support New Government

Cairo, Egypt (AP) — The Army-backed government of Premier Aly Maher Pasha got the blessing of the powerful Wafdist party yesterday for its drive to end corruption and wipe out the last traces of ex-King Farouk's reign.

Former Wafdist Premier Mostafa el Nahas Pasha and party boss Fuad Serag el Din Pasha, returning yesterday from a European vacation, quickly jumped on the bandwagon of strong man Maj. Gen. Mohammed Naguib Bey.

Probe Allied Front

Seoul, (AP) — A Chinese Communist probing force stabbed at Allied Western Front positions on Old Baldy in driving rain and early morning darkness today in an apparent attempt to drive U. N. infantrymen completely from the height. The attack was repulsed.

Eight Killed, Thousands Hurt As Mourning Throngs Pay Tribute To Eva Peron

Buenos Aires, Argentina, (AP) — Army troops were called out yesterday to help control sorrowing throngs crowding to pay final tribute to Argentina's first lady, Eva Peron. Eight persons reportedly perished and thousands were hurt in the crush.

Hundreds of thousands of mourning Argentines surged around the Ministry of Labor, where the glass-topped casket of President Juan D. Peron's wife and powerful political helper lay in state.

Authorities confirmed the deaths of four persons, but doctors who set up emergency aid stations near the ministry said the toll had risen to eight. The number injured in the two-day crush reached uncounted thousands. Many of them suffered nervous collapse and some had broken legs or arms.

As troops moved in to help the harried police, the crowds stretched out more patiently into mile-long queues to file slowly past the ornate, blanketed bier. Many of them saw the President, who took turns with high government officials at standing half-hour watches over the casket.

Peron ordered the improvised chapel in which his wife's body lay in state held open longer than originally scheduled to allow more people to file past.

This indicated there was a possibility the funeral may be postponed beyond the original time set for tomorrow afternoon, but officials said plans still were unchanged for the temporary burial in the headquarters of the General Confederation of Labor (CGT), the master labor organization which Mrs. Peron led and championed.

Italian Scientist Sets Off Explosion Linked To H-Bomb Experiment; Results Studied

Rome, (AP) — The Italian Defense Ministry announced last night that an explosion had been touched off in this country in an attempt to transform "a very small amount of hydrogen into helium."

While the ministry did not emphasize the point, this is the same reaction which scientists and military researchers in various parts of the world have been trying to build up to the proportions of the dread hydrogen bomb.

First reports on the Italian experiment, appearing in the newspaper Il Giornale d'Italia earlier yesterday, said an Italian scientist had actually exploded an H-bomb.

This was categorically denied by Defense Minister Rinaldo Ossola, who said such reports "were completely without foundation." Actually, Ossola added, it was an experiment "regarding the possibility of transforming a very small amount of hydrogen into helium."

The value of the experiment will not be known until a detailed scientific examination has been made, the minister said.

The newspaper account gave a vivid description of the blast, which it said took place at a central Italian proving ground:

"A great flame rose in the air from a point which some 30 men, in a well protected anti aircraft shelter, watched with painful intensity. A red glare with a green crown on top was followed by the tremendous roar of the explosion: Italy had exploded its first nuclear bomb."

Influent, pro-government Il Giornale d'Italia said the experiment culminating in the explosion was the work of a young atomic scientist, Ubaldo Losi, a pupil of the noted Italian-born physicist Enrico Fermi and a fellow student of Prof. Bruno Pontecorvo, Italian-born British scientist believed to have fled behind the Iron Curtain.

OPA said the lean cuts were selected for the increases because housewives customarily pay a premium for them during warm months. They account for about 40 to 45 per cent of pork sales. They do not include cuts usually used in making sausage. Sausage ceilings therefore will not be affected.

OPA also authorized slaughterers and wholesalers to add $1.20 per 100 pounds on sales of pork products to restaurants, hotels and other selling meals. The agency said this differential is customary in the industry.

Two Youngsters Spend Night In Woods, Experience Brief Visit From Black Bear

Kane (AP) — A 10-year-old girl and her six-year-old brother were rescued yesterday after a harrowing night in the rugged mountains and a brief encounter with a bear.

The youngsters are Paul Robinson, 6, and his sister, Gloria, 10, of Hazel Hurst. The children disappeared Sunday night while picking ferns with their parents at nearby Clermont.

A worker saw the children walking along the Clarion River at Glen Hazel early yesterday morning while a search party of 200 game wardens, state police and volunteers beat the brush in a 15-square mile area.

The children had walked 10 miles following the Clarion River to the dam during the night.

The search was pressed because of the prevalence of wildcats and bear in the rugged strip of land covered by hills, deep valleys with swamps and an abundance of wild life.

Planes from the Civil Aeronautics Administration scouted at tree-top level trying to pinpoint the youngsters.

The family had been on an outing. Kenneth Robinson, the father, said: "This has taken 20 years off my life."

The children appeared slightly bedraggled but none the worse for their harrowing experience. Gloria said:

Sen. McMahon, Atomic Power Authority, Dies

Washington, (AP) — Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut, an ardent crusader for peace and one of the nation's top authorities on atomic weapons, died of cancer yesterday. He was 48 years old.

As chairman of the joint Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, McMahon helped speed the country's post-war preparedness for a possible atomic World War III and at the same time raised his voice eloquently in a call for universal disarmament.

When Soviet Russia turned a deaf ear to his pleas for friendship, McMahon urged full speed ahead in developing a hydrogen super-bomb. He warned that if Russia won the race to create the so-called "hell bomb," such a weapon in Soviet hands might "incinerate 50 million Americans in the space of minutes."

Sen. Brien McMahon

The Connecticut senator had been his state's "favorite son" candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination and received 16 votes at the National Convention in Chicago last week. Illness had prevented him from campaigning.

McMahon died at 11:10 a.m., in Georgetown Hospital, surrounded by members of his family. The end came after a rapidly accelerating illness that developed following a spinal operation in June.

His physician, Dr. Philip A. Caulfield, said McMahon was afflicted with cancer of the lung which spread to his back and pelvis.

President Truman, Vice President Barkley and many other notables joined in expressions of sorrow at McMahon's passing and praise for his brilliant record achieved in a comparatively few years in Congress.

Sen. McMahon was one of the first to see the fantastic possibilities for good in the use of atomic power," Truman said in a statement at Kansas City.

"As he conceived it, the miracle of the release of atomic energy was intended for man's everlasting benefit—not his destruction. He worked tirelessly toward this end and I am sure future generations will be grateful for his wisdom."

"I shall miss Brien McMahon because he was such a good friend."

McMahon was the fourth U. S. senator taken by death in the last 18 months. The others were Virgil Chapman (D-Ky.), killed in an automobile accident in Washington, D. C., March 8, 1951; Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich.), April 18, 1951, and Kenneth S. Wherry (R-Nebr.), Nov. 29, 1951.

The senator's body will be taken to Norwalk, Conn., his birthplace, tonight and will lie at the home of his brother, Dr. William McMahon, until the funeral at 11 a.m. Thursday at the Church of St. Thomas the Apostle in Norwalk.

"We were scared when we knew we were lost and it got dark out. Paul slept for a while—I don't know how long—and then we walked again. I stood watch over him."

"Then this morning when we stopped to rest on a rock I saw a big black bear walking in the woods. I grabbed Paul and held him still so he didn't move."

"The bear came near us but then turned and went right by. I was pretty scared then."

Paul, who was dressed only in a pair of blue jeans and had no shoes, looked pretty chipper after his sudden encounter with the wilds of nature but had no comment.

Eisenhower Maps Plans

Denver (AP) — Setting a fast pace, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower returned to his campaign headquarters desk yesterday and tackled the task of organizing his drive for the White House.

The Republican presidential nominee, well rested after 10 days of fishing and a little political planning in the Colorado Rockies, showed up shortly after 8 a.m. at his office in the Brown Palace Hotel.

The first order of business was a 2½-hour conference with his new political chief of staff, Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, and other members of his personal staff.

The meeting was devoted to campaign organizational problems, preparatory to a series of conferences the general will hold here later in the week with party leaders.

In addition to Adams, Rep. Walter Judd of Minnesota arrived at Eisenhower headquarters yesterday. A long time Eisenhower-for-president booster, Judd plans to remain most of the week to assist in planning the general's campaign.

Mr. Truman Drives To Kansas City

Kansas City, Mo., (AP) — President Truman, home to vote in the hot Missouri Democratic primary, spent yesterday in Kansas City talking with old friends and political associates.

His penthouse suite in the Hotel Muehlebach drew a steady stream of callers after he drove in from his home in Independence for the first time since his arrival Saturday from the Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

Truman has voiced 100 per cent support for J. E. Taylor, Missouri attorney general, in his race for the Democratic senatorial nomination against W. Stuart Symington.

Truman hasn't yet taken sides officially in the gubernatorial primary between former Gov. Phil Donnelly and Rep. Phil Welch.

He has assured Democratic National Chairman Frank E. McKinney that he is ready to stump the country for Adlai Stevenson, the new Democratic presidential nominee, leaving the extent of his speechmaking up to Stevenson and McKinney.

McKinney said at Chicago that he is planning a campaign starting Labor Day with Truman, Stevenson, Sen. John Sparkman, the vice presidential nominee, and Vice President Barkley bearing the brunt of the speechmaking.

ICC Postpones Rate Increase

Washington, (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday ordered a two-months' postponement of newly authorized increases in minimum charges for Pullman sleeping-car accommodations.

The increases, under the ICC order of July 10, actually became effective yesterday. However, the commission announced that the authority has now been re-dated for Sept. 22, to permit study of a plea for reconsideration, filed by the secretary of the Air Force.

Commission officials said that purchasers of accommodations at the new rate yesterday will be entitled to refunds.

Stevenson Returns To Capital, Pledges Fighting Campaign

Springfield, Ill., (AP) — Gov. Adlai Stevenson rode in triumph from Chicago to Springfield yesterday where he told cheering thousands he will fight for the Democratic election to the presidency with all his heart and mind and soul.

An estimated 25,000 people jammed into the courthouse square here and stood under a blistering 97-degree sun to give a hero's welcome to the reluctant winner of the Democratic party's highest honor-nomination as its standard bearer.

"My heart is not light and I have no elation today," he said. "I have been running away—not toward that job."

But then he said he intends to fight for the presidency with all the strength he possesses.

He made this promise standing on a bunting-draped platform in front of the time-weathered old courthouse in which Abraham Lincoln once warned against "a house divided" on the issue of slavery.

Wherever the train stopped along the route from Chicago to Springfield, hundreds of people were waiting for a glimpse of the governor. He was in good spirits and in his polished oratory he mixed humor with grave words of humility that he had been chosen for this job.

At Pontiac, Ill., Stevenson stood on the train steps to receive the crowd's cheers. He spotted an old friend and cried: "I'm in terrible trouble now."

The friend replied: "Oh, no, you're not."

Again in Bloomington—where he was reared—he told some 3,000 people: "I have no feeling of triumph, exultation, or elation—only a feeling of profound obligation and duty."

Judge Denounces Mental Hospitals That Free Maniacs

New York, (AP) — In bitter anger, Judge Saul S. Streit yesterday blamed mental institutions for losing thousands of dangerous maniacs "in utter disregard of the public safety."

"It is just a question of time as to when and where some of them may explode," he said at a first degree murder hearing for Air Force veteran Bayard Peakes, the eternal life slayer of a pretty stenographer at Columbia University.

"I am also of the opinion that state law and the Veterans Administration regulations are wholly inadequate to safeguard the welfare of the public," he said.

As it is now, he claimed, the state and the VA are foisting "dangerous maniacs on the public with the most dire consequences."

Settlement Reached On Strike Eve

Pittsburgh (AP) — A strike threat was lifted from the aluminum industry last night just as steel began pouring from the country's mills in respectable volume after a 55-day walkout.

The Wage Stabilization Board in Washington announced complete settlement of a strike the CIO United Steelworkers had set for today.

Terms of the settlement, announced by Aluminum Company of America, follows substantially the pattern worked out by the USW with the basic steel industry.

The aluminum settlement calls for a 21.4 cent-an-hour pay-fringe benefit package with 15 cents of the wage raise retroactive to March 10 and 4 cents effective July 1. Steelworkers got an average 21-cent hourly package with 16½ cents effective March 1.

Both agreements call for a modified union shop under which new employees must apply for union membership but may withdraw their application during the last 15 days of the first month of employment. Old employees are exempt.

Other terms of the aluminum pact:

Three cents-an-hour reduction in the North-South geographical differential, effective July 1, and a further decrease of 2 cents next Jan. 1. The differential at present is 7 cents an hour.

Three weeks vacation after 15 years of service instead of after the present 25 years.

Increase in shift differentials from 4 to 6 cents an hour on the first shift and from 6 to 9 cents on the second, retroactive to July 1.

The agreement calls for the company and union to complete a joint wage study by July 1, 1953.

The affected plants are in Bridgeport, Conn.; Edgewater, N. J.; New Kensington, Pa.; Bardin, N. C.; Alcoa, Tenn.; Bauxite, Ark.; Mobile, Ala.; Detroit, Mich. and Richmond, Ind. About 15,000 employees are involved.

Steel producing companies appeared to be vying with each other in a race to restore full production and satisfy a steel-starved nation.

Only a few trouble spots here and there slowed things up among the large companies.

In Washington, the Defense Production Administration (DPA) warned that despite steel's fast comeback, thousands of metal workers face layoffs in coming weeks.

DPA Administrator Henry H. Fowler said it may be two or three months before manufacturers of civilian goods get a sufficient flow of new steel. The result will be layoffs at plants which had enough steel on hand to keep going during the long steel strike.

Fowler estimated the steel production loss at 20 million tons.

Lack Of Skilled Help Handicap To Expansion

By James R. Gaffney

Shortage of skilled tool and die makers is about the only hindrance to expansion by Master Appliance Corp., Tobyhanna.

Andrew Inzerill, president of the firm noted the lack of skilled workers in the county by stating he was certain the productivity of his plant could be increased if such experienced tradesmen were available for employment.

With top production Master Appliance employs about 20 persons but at present only six workers are turning out the product—metal frames for women's handbags.

Located at 24 Mills St. in a large single-story frame structure purchased by the corporation in 1946, the machine shop also houses the facilities of Toby Tool and Die Works Co., headed by Fred Pohlig.

Operations started in New York many years ago but the demand for greater working space motivated the shift to this county. Sales department of the corporation still is located in New York and utilizes the services of two persons.

Raw stock shipped to the plant in coils of cold rolled steel is the basic material used in production. Pressed into forming dies, the metal is stamped and bent into form, all by machines.

One of the most popular products the firm manufactures was floor smoking stands. Production on this item alone, at peak, was between 500 and 700 daily. Lack of skilled labor has prevented further production on this item, however, and the main operation centers chiefly around the manufacture of frames for pocketbooks.

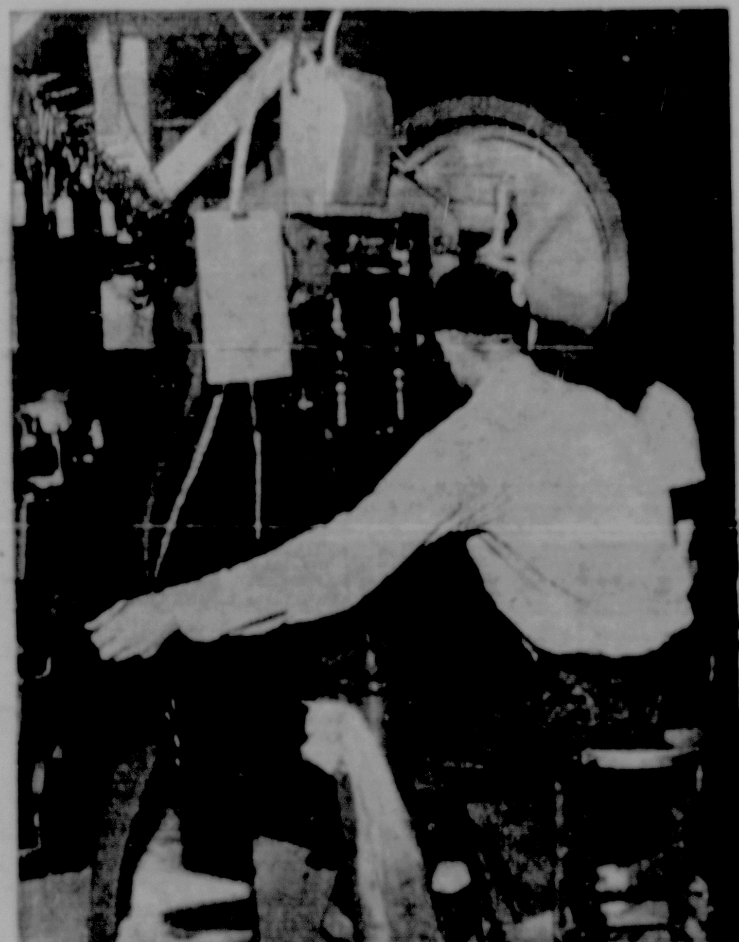

All attachments for the metal frames, including brass pins and tabs are placed on the frames before they are shipped by motor express from Tobyhanna. All work is on a contract basis and none is done for local firms, or for individuals.

Inzerill designs his own frames on a drafting board before the operation begins. Master Appliance also does brazing work, makes wall candlestick holders of metal, and turns out other metal items of highly decorative design and quality.

Among the many machines used to complete the production are power presses, lathes, shapers, electric spot welders, riveters, paint spraying equipment, heating ovens and polishing equipment. The inventory of facilities amounts to thousands of dollars.

Other officials of the corporation are C. R. Bensinger, vice president; E. Franch, secretary and treasurer. Inzerill has been in the metal trades practically all his adult life and has a thorough knowledge of the expectations and is well versed on quality and workmanship.

The presence of this industry in the northern section of the county marks another step forward for industrial power here and while the future at present doesn't indicate expansion, due to the lack of skilled workers, the attitude of Inzerill toward advancement is a strong indication that Master Appliance Corp. has a good future here.

Increased DPA Grants Approved

Harrisburg (AP)—The State Board of Public Assistance yesterday approved a $600,000 a month increase in relief grants—nearly twice what approved.

"We hope to have this increase out to the needy by the first of October," said Mrs. Eleanor G. Evans, state public assistance secretary. "It is a very complicated formula and will take a great deal of paper work."

Mrs. Evans estimated that the monthly boost would average between $4.20 for a single person to $1.60 a person in a family of eight.

"But each case must be computed separately and so the averages are very rough estimates," Mrs. Evans said.

She explained that the $600,000 cost per month was based on the case load of 225,000 persons at the end of June. However, the load increased to 249,000 since the steel strike started.

The board last month had given its tentative approval to a plan estimated to cost an additional $360,000 a month. That was boosted due

County Relief Load Remains Unchanged

While public assistance caseload increased 4.3 per cent in the state because of the steel strike, Monroe County held its own with another low of only 2.1 per cent of the population on assistance.

All counties in which steel production or processing are not an important part of the economy generally showed either a decline or steady rate over previous months.

Monroe County's 2.1 per cent rate was represented by 725 persons.

The number included 50 on general assistance, 325 old age assistance, 258 aid to dependent children, 48 aid to disabled, 44 blind pensions.

Increased federal contributions to the state relief fund.

"We saw that due to the new federal formula we could grant even a larger increase," Mrs. Evans said.

The increase will not be retroactive, she added.

Club To Visit New Plant At Morrisville

The Industrial Management Club of Monroe County—formerly the Foreman's Club—will visit the new Fairless works of the United States Steel Co. sometime in early October.

Arrangements completed by Horace Walters, program chairman of the Industrial Management Club, make possible this unusual tour of the great steel plant along the Delaware River. It is named for Benjamin Fairless, chief executive of United States Steel Co.

Tentative plans call for the membership to travel by bus to the site of the plant and also the new "Fairless" city, created to provide housing for workers and associated help of the giant steel plant near Morrisville, Pa.

At the September executive committee meeting the matter of day, time and other final details will be settled.

Dr. J. L. Rumsey will be out of town July 26 through August 10.—Adv.

Contractors Set To Resume Road Project

With the steel strike ended and workers returning to their jobs the Foxtown Hill project to widen Route 611 is expected to be resumed in two weeks.

This statement yesterday by Collins and Maxwell, Easton contractors, follows the July 15 announcement that all work on the 2.17-mile stretch from the intersection of Route 90 to Delaware Water Gap was halted due to the steel shortage.

Material purchased from Bethlehem Steel Co. and vital to the laying of blacktop is expected to gain in production once the blast furnaces are in full operation.

Work on the stretch of highway was halted before any attempt was made to tear up the blacktop. A three-lane highway has been maintained during the layoff interim.

When work stopped it was estimated about 25 per cent of the project was completed. Laboring under a 60-working-day contract, Collins and Maxwell had expected about 60 per cent of the project to be completed by July 15 but the shortage of materials began to tell even then, delaying progress.

Five-foot shoulders will be added on both sides of Route 611 when the project is completed. Collins and Maxwell began work on the highway June 3 after submitting a low bid of $148,740 for the project.

Stroudsburg Couple's Nephew Arrives Here From Greece

Three weeks in America are already showing on young Nicholas Tantis, a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Avlon, 127 Broad St., Stroudsburg. He's getting ready to go to Blair Academy at nearby Blairstown, N. J.

At 16 Nicholas left his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Tantis in Piraeus, Greece, to sail for the United States under the sponsorship of his aunt and uncle, operators of a souvenir store at 628 Main St.

In the little more than three weeks he's been here the handsome young Greek—unable to speak a great deal of English—has made up for his enthusiasm about the United States and his opportunity at Blair Academy with smiles that are beaming.

He completed schooling in Greece in pace with his age, but sought a chance to attend an American university. Blair Academy is but a preparatory step towards that end and the Avlons are, of course, leaving nothing undone to satisfy that ambition.

Because a straight line in an architectural structure will appear to sag, designers often provide a slight arch for such lines.

Pilots Escape Death In Crash

Butler, Pa. — Two F-51 Mustang pilots are nursing cuts and bruises after what seems like a miraculous escape from a head-on crash 15,000 feet in the sky.

The pilots are Lt. Robert A.

Rumbaugh of Grove City and Lt. Jack Love of Waynesburg.

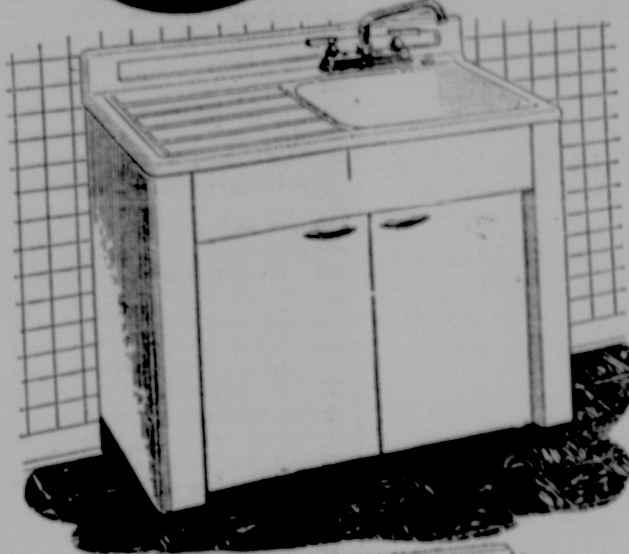

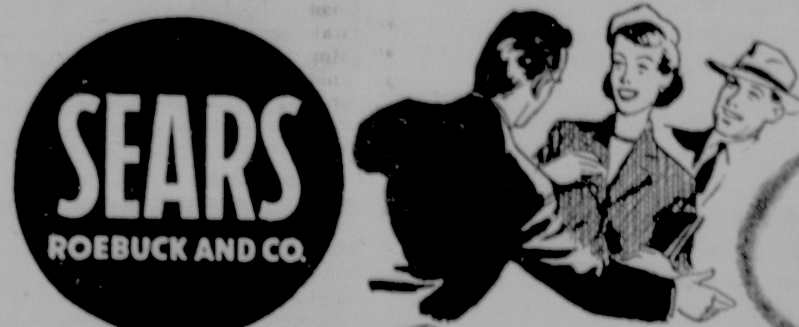

Rumbaugh piloted his plane to a belly landing in a field but was trapped inside when it nosed over. Love bailed out after a wing was ripped from his plane which later exploded in an oil field.

The crash occurred over nearly West Sunbury. The speed of the two planes was estimated at 600 miles an hour at the time of impact.

Light will appear redder if its source is moving away from the observer and this effect has been used to develop the theory that every major portion of the universe is moving away from every other portion.

Your State Police

Throughout America it is generally recognized that Pennsylvania maintains the finest State Police force in our Nation. Ours is also the largest such force maintained by any state, both in the number of police and in the total of uniformed and civilian employees. It is the second oldest State Police force in America and the oldest uniformed force.

In early years the State Police were all mounted, and in the days of open cars, linen dusters and two-cylinder engines, patrolled the public highways on horseback. But they were at first principally concerned in enforcing the provisions of the State's Fish and Game laws.

In 1906, the total number of Pennsylvania passenger and commercial motor vehicles was 10,951. Cars were a problem only to the raisers of poultry and the drivers of skittish horses. In 1951, the total of passenger and commercial cars operating under Pennsylvania license had risen to 3,241,822 and a principal duty of the State Police force has become the control of traffic on our crowded highways.

The high efficiency achieved by the State Police has been made possible by the careful selection of personnel and by the many devices of communication and crime-detection employed in the service. They were among the first in the Nation type. Now they are pioneering in special radio broadcasts on highway hazards. They maintain substations at various points across the Commonwealth and intercommunication by radio and teletype with most of the states in the northeastern section of the country.

In addition to the importance of their work in traffic control, the State Police are a main source of information as to travel routes and points of interest within the Commonwealth.

The Pennsylvania State Police are charged with the administration of various State statutes for which no other enforcement agency exists, such as the laws governing the transportation of inflammable liquid and explosives, the elimination of fire hazards along the highways, the examination of applicants for drivers' licenses and the supervision of motor vehicle inspection stations.

These law enforcement activities involve the work of their Bureau of Criminal Identification, their Chemical and Ballistics Laboratory maintained in Harrisburg, their Bureau of Fire Protection and their Training School.

The efficiency and the high reputation attained by the Pennsylvania State Police have been an important factor in inducing many other states to develop similar systems. The justice, intelligence and courage with which their limited number of men enforce the State laws has also been an important influence in maintaining respect for the government of the Commonwealth and in emphasizing Pennsylvania's established reputation for public order.

Good Riddance

Jurisdictional strikes are the most ridiculous kind of strikes, because neither the honest businessman nor the honest laborer can cope with them.

They have been particularly prevalent in the American Federation of Labor. So it is good news that the AFL building trades presidents have finally agreed that they will revoke the charter of any local which picks a job involved in a jurisdictional dispute.

If this agreement is enforced, it should stop most of these adolescent clashes. And it is encouraging to see labor leaders reforming themselves instead of waiting for Congress to do it.

These Days - - By George E. Sokolsky

In Review

I witnessed the Republican Convention from the Conrad Hilton Hotel and the press box in the Amphitheater in Chicago. I witnessed the Democratic Convention on television at my farm in the Berkshires, supplemented by long distance telephone.

I heard the speeches at the Democratic Convention better than I could those at the Republican Convention. I was not constantly being disturbed by side conversations, by colleagues walking in and out, by photographers and the constant running back and forth on the rostrum. I am all for Mrs. India Edwards who hawled out the Democrats for being rude; but they were just as rude afterwards as they and the Republicans were before.

The Republicans did all their fighting on the floor of the convention which did them damage on television. The Democrats tried to avoid that but failed.

If all such conventions are to be on television in the future, the speeches will have to be shorter, more concise, less repetitive. Nobody can watch three or four hours of the same thing, particularly when what is heard is really without meaning.

Also, television shows not only the speakers but the audience. It does not do a political party any good with the people if millions of Americans look at a picture of chosen delegates, sent to a convention to do serious business, who appear to be acting like kids raising hell at a country fair. Speaker Sam Rayburn properly told the Democrats in the first few minutes of his speech how to behave like gentlemen. Somebody should have told the Republicans as much.

The existing convention device became obsolete once the parties permitted television to show the country what a convention actually is. A new type of convention will have to be worked out, a swiftly-moving, deliberative body, dealing with its proper business without hoopla and hallyloo.

Another matter that will have to be considered is time. These conventions run too late into the night for the television audiences. The most important speeches come into eastern daylight time between 10 and 12 p.m. Some of the most interesting business happened after midnight, EDT. That is too late for some of the states which produce large volumes of votes.

Thus far, at the Democratic Convention, Governor Deaver's keynote speech lasted about one hour and twenty minutes. I do not believe that any audience can be held that long for a speech on television. I had to force myself to stay with that speech which is of major significance because it is the outline of the campaign. Everybody followed the line laid down by the Governor except Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's speech which was propaganda for the United Nations.

If these political parties want to take the public into their confidence, they ought to cut the speeches and produce more debate. The public likes debate and is bored by mediocre speeches. But hysteria such as Senator Paul Douglas permitted himself is not debate.

Such discussions as appear on "Meet the Press" are more interesting than much that happens on the convention floor. For instance, I saw, on television, a few newspaper reporters take on Governor Herman Talmadge of Georgia. That was one of the most interesting shows during the convention, because Talmadge was urbane, shrewd, sure of his ideas, competent to state his position, never wanting for ideas or words. Some of my colleagues of the press, in contrast to him, were inarticulate. Yet, the debate was better than the speeches on the convention floor that followed.

The managers of conventions will learn to cut speeches and increase debate and discussion, even of a controversial nature. They will discover that the delegates will have to have a voice or their constituents will wonder what they were doing out there. They will realize that when the balconies vote even more noisily than the delegates, television shows it and they will be forced to adopt the voting machine to preserve the dignity of their meeting. On nomination night, Speaker Rayburn trying to take a vote, literally could not tell who was on the floor. A voting machine system would eliminate such ambiguous situations.

My own experience forces upon me the conviction that television gives a less distorted picture than actual attendance at the convention. That is, if the telephone is available to help.

Try And Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

A doctor in Findlay, Ohio, told me about a patient of forty who discovered she was going to have a baby, and broke into loud lamentations. "I have sons of nineteen and eighteen away at college," she wailed, "and I certainly don't want another baby at this stage of the game." "You have nothing to worry about," soothed the doctor. "Forty is a good age for a mother to bear a child. I promise everything will go smoothly."

"It's not the baby's birth that's upsetting me," the patient announced vehemently. "What I simply cannot face is the thought of going through that whole routine with the Parent-Teachers Association all over again!"

Inside Washington

Washington. The hottest thing at the moment in world affairs, in the opinion of members of the international community here, is not the UN, the cold war with Russia, or even Korea—it is the rapid burgeoning of the World Court at The Hague.

That global tribunal, say the experts, is re-enacting today in the world scene the strides made centuries ago by the English courts when the present pattern emerged during the reign of Richard ("The Lionhearted") III.

They predict that, on the basis of what the International Court of Justice has done since it received a strong shot in the arm after World War II, before long the peoples of the world will be able to take disputes of international scope into court in much the same way as they sue in their regular courts.

With so many people buying and selling things abroad and traveling, the development of a world court could affect more persons directly than ever before.

Under active consideration now are proposals to expand the World Court's function to include crimes reaching beyond national borders and business controversies between firms and individuals of different nations.

Docket is heavy. — Meanwhile the 15 judges of all nations grow under an already-heavy docket that creates delays all too familiar to almost anyone engaged in litigation in either state or federal courts in the United States. This is the case even though at present they confine their jurisdiction to arguments among the nations themselves.

The British-Iranian oil dispute has held top priority, but other controversies crowd the spotlight. The United States is challenging the right of Morocco, a French protectorate, to limit free and unhindered trade. Great Britain and France are trying their claims to some valuable islands in the English channel, Liechtenstein and Guatemala are arguing the merits of what one nation may do to the citizens of another country living within its borders.

These issues get tremendously technical, the United States having its claim on an 1836 treaty with the Sultan of Morocco, the English demanding that the French honor a grant made in 1260 by King John the Good of France, and the rights of "world citizenship" being at stake in the Guatemalan case.

Operating just the way the ordinary courts did as they carved out their spheres of power in the early days of the Anglo-American judicial system, the World Court is trying to make up for its lack of enforcement power by writing decisions that are so just that they command the force of international public opinion.

International law authorities believe that they are succeeding, and point out that when Britain lost its case last year against Norway's definition of its territorial fishing waters, the court's opinion was so persuasive that the United States is using it as a guide to the solution of the tidelands oil issue.

Procedure. — The court takes about 15 months for the filing of written briefs, hears oral arguments for an additional month, and then takes several months to prepare and publish an opinion. This is the way the United States Supreme Court works.

Up to now, about the only way to handle world controversies has been to either forget them, to threaten war, or to try international arbitration if all sides agreed to participate. Lawyers point out that these were the methods used in the late Middle Ages before courts were developed as they are known today in most civilized countries.

But the need for international courts is seen on every hand, and recently 16 nations sent representatives to The Hague to work out world laws on buying and selling. International businessmen are working on proposed world bills of lading to speed air freight.

The proposal of Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (D, Massachusetts), that a writ of habeas corpus be sought from the World Court for William N. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent held in a Czechoslovakian jail, is given as an example of the need for a world criminal court to end international tyranny in the way courts in England put a stop to imprisonment without due process of law centuries ago.

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

One of the most astonishing things about human nature is the different meanings different people can read into the same story, the same statement, the same letter. There is hardly a day in the week which does not bring me letters from different parts of the country, some of which criticize me severely for something I have written, while the rest praise me for the same thoughts.

Just the other day, for example, I wrote a silly little thing about a college professor who had told his hearers that the people of old never ate all that "refined" food we eat.

Said one day, just for a gag, I ordered one of his sample breakfasts. . . . Jose Ferrer and Zsa Zsa Gabor, filming "Toujours L'autre" in Paris, are having a Ball! But Anita Hope, a writer, is head gal with him. . . . Warner Dees (ex-Latin Q) and other Yankee Darlings claim a raw deal from the Palm Beach Casino at Cannes. Hired at $100 per wk, they have to pay $60 per week for rooms secured for them by the casino.

Low Ayres, the star, and Elizabeth Firestone, the heiress, plan meeting in Europe soon to decide what to do about her unrelenting family. . . . Ex-King Zog is building an atomic-proof shelter for his Long Island mansion. . . . Producer Jean Dalrymple's bridegroom, Philip Ginder, on his way to Korea, was tipped to Belg. Gen. by Gen. Clark at Tokyo. . . . After the Democratic circus in Chicago Joe Warner is surprised that they put up Stevenson and Sparkman. Joe thought they were low. . . . Rumor about-town: That the payoff to bookie Gross for his naming all those cops will be a pardon from Gov. Dewey in Sept. . . . Ali Khan is expected at the Plaza on Aug. 3. . . . Socialite Lanson Hurley and Kazuko Yoshida (the Japanese Prime Minister's daughter) were a Tony's Caprice eyefiller. . . . Isn't Mrs. Jose Ferrer planning to take Renouveau? . . . fasts—and, of course, couldn't get it. Within a few days I got a letter from another college professor calling me a lunatic.

On that same day, from the same town, came another letter telling me that the writer had gotten a great laugh out of my column and "how true" it was.

I guess it is that sort of thing that makes up our politics. If everybody liked Eisenhower or everybody liked Taft or everybody—God forbid—liked Truman, there would not be any need for any political conventions or any elections.

And then, what would happen to all the manufacturers of campaign buttons, of banners, of hot dogs and balloons? It is that difference in tastes and in human conceptions that makes Broadway shows, that makes all the different radio and television shows possible—that fills the many different churches.

Or does it fill the churches? The other day I happened to tune in on a radio program—I don't know which it was, because I didn't stay with it long enough—in which a minister from Denver complained about the godlessness of our nation.

Denver, a city of 500,000, he said, had just enough churches for 50,000 people. That certainly should be entirely insufficient for a city of the size of Denver—if all the people went to church.

But instead, he said, on any average Sunday, the churches are half empty.

Of course, you probably know my ideas about religion by now. And lest you disagree with me, remember what I said above—the college professor called me a lunatic. So, maybe, I am.

But I can't help thinking that instead of building five or six or seven churches in a town and having all of them HALF empty on Sunday and ALL empty during the week, supposing we had just one or two or three.

Wouldn't they then all be full? You know how it is when you go to a restaurant to eat out. If you see one that is full to overflowing, you think it must be good and you wait in line to get in.

But if you see one that is half empty you think it can't be so good and pass it up.

You may say, of course, that it is sacrilegious to compare a church with a restaurant.

But if religion is not food—for the soul—then I don't know what it is.

He remembered a stroll he took along a New York street shortly before starting an engagement in the play, "Harvey". He met a young actor he knew. The youth was on his way to take a job in Macy's basement. Dunn sent him to the play producer, who gave him a good role. "Suppose we'd been walking on different streets," Jimmy speculated.

Success Story

Even Hollywood would reject the script as too far-fetched. . . . the true story of a Connecticut detective's son, reared in a community of narrow and muddy rivers, but destined to be a power by the fabulous Blue Danube and the legendary Rhine. . . . a kid who began as a classified solicitor and newspaper circulation helper, and wound up ruling where the Hohenzollerns once stalked the land. Walter Donnelly, just named High Commissioner to Germany, is an able, immensely likable fellow who came up the hard way. In the modest Donnelly home, the household songs were about the River Shannon, Killarney Lakes and Bantry Bay. The piano tinkled to the waltzes of Vienna and Berlin only after a visit by New York opera troupes to New Haven's Hyperion. Nobody dreamed, least of all Walter, that one day he would rule where the royalty of Europe had danced to the "Art of Life." "The Lorelei" and "Auf Wiedersehen."

Walt Donnelly is a son of the most gracious well-poised police department we ever knew, a man who began pounding a beat and came to preside over the New Haven Detective Bureau in a cubbyhole of an office in a dingy police station hard by McDonald's livery stable. Walter, the younger son, seemed a little purposeless as a kid. When he got out of Hillhouse High and took a job at $5 a week on The Register on Crown Street there was despair in the Donnelly household, with Papa Donnelly worriedly asking: "Do you think Walter will ever get anywhere? (Get anywhere, didja say! ! !) We were managing editor of the sheet when Master

Went on to leads in "On the Town", "Where's Charley?" and "Miss Liberty". Did the Warner Brothers version of "Charley" in London, with Ray Bolger, and now has a contract with the studio. Has a glamorous role in "The Desert Song".

She described movie-acting: "You do one line, wait three hours, and do another line. Or a reaction" . . . she rolled her blue eyes. "On the stage you kill yourself for a couple of hours, and then you're through." And, I gathered, it's fun.

He remembered a stroll he took along a New York street shortly before starting an engagement in the play, "Harvey". He met a young actor he knew. The youth was on his way to take a job in Macy's basement. Dunn sent him to the play producer, who gave him a good role. "Suppose we'd been walking on different streets," Jimmy speculated.

The "Playhouse of Stars" film will serve as a "pilot" for a TV series of his own, Dunn told me. He'll play a teenager's father beset by the problems only a Donnelly was responding to sharp orders of "Tie up that want ad for a week's insertion!" and "Hey, kid, give 'em a hand in the circulation room!" Kaiser Wilhelm, the Crown Prince, Von Moltke and the Emperor Franz Josef were often on the front page of the paper served by Master Donnelly, and, as Walter helped fold and sell 'em, who could predict that one day eventually he would hold sway where they had strutted and flung ultimatums?

To the youngster who oozed Irish charm from every pore, they and their countries seemed in a misty never-never land. Ireland appeared much closer to the Donnelly hearts with its "Kathleen Mavourneen." "My Wild Irish Rose" and "The Kerry Dance." No "Gutterdammerung," "Blue Danube" or "Emperor's Waltz" came from the Donnelly photograph. Yet the kid was to grow up to hold power over Austria and later a great part of Germany and live, move and issue orders in the great halls where crowned heads had whirled to Johann Strauss waltzes. To Germany he goes as High Commissioner in a few days, ultimately to be Ambassador, wielding terrific power in a day of major crisis, conceivably the fate of Europe in his hands.

We had lost track of Walter until a few years ago we heard of him as Ambassador to Venezuela in a diplomatic career of brilliance which followed graduation from Georgetown. More recently he has been giving Joe Stalin his "come-uppance" in Austria. And now Germany. Well, more power to you, Walt! In Vienna did you ever look at the classified ads and remember when John Day Jackson, the publisher back home, asked "Who's the new kid? Do you think he's got anything on the ball?"

Court Orders State To Show Evidence Against Roberts

Defense Asks For Writ Of Habeas Corpus

Wilkes-Barre — The Commonwealth is under a show-cause rule in Luzerne County court, granted yesterday by Judge Thomas M. Lewis, to provide sufficient legal reason for holding in jail Jonah Roberts, Edwinstown resident now accused of murder of his wife in the so-called "hitch-hiker murder case."

Attorney Frank Slattery Jr., Wilkes-Barre, counsel for Roberts, petitioned the court for a writ of habeas corpus charging that Roberts is unjustly and illegally detained in Luzerne County prison for "a supposed and fictitious criminal matter."

Judge Lewis made the rule returnable Thursday at 10 a.m. It will be at that time that the Commonwealth must provide the evidence that Roberts must be held in jail on the open murder charge.

Last Wednesday Roberts was held for court action after an arraignment before Wyoming Justice of the Peace W. Howell Evans for the murder of his wife, Mary, 43, on the night of June 10 in the vicinity of Bear Creek.

Roberts was committed to jail without bail after Justice of the Peace Evans entered the usual technical plea of not guilty for the defendant.

Roberts has consistently maintained that his wife was slain and himself wounded by two hitchhikers.

Slattery reiterated his belief in the prisoner's innocence yesterday after a visit with Roberts in prison, just before he filed the habeas corpus writ.

"The man is completely innocent," the defense attorney said. "His story verifies it."

"I do not expect the district attorney to be able to prove a prima facie case. And up until this time, the State Police who testified at Mrs. Evans' office have not testified to any facts to connect the accused with this crime."

"The crime was committed by two hitchhikers fully described by the accused to the police, who would do well to go out and get the proper felons and not arrest people on suspicion."

Roberts' son, Vivian, also of Edwinstown, accompanied Attorney Slattery on his visit to jail.

Following reason were cited by Slattery in his habeas corpus proceeding:

One—That he is confined for a supposed and fictitious criminal matter.

Two—That he is unjustly and illegally confined.

Three—That he is not connected with the crime of murder on any factual basis, but merely on the grounds of suspicion arising in the minds of the State Police.

Four—That a prima facie case sufficient to hold him not established at the magistrate's hearing.

Five—That Roberts was present at the time the murder was committed and though shot and bleeding, he has continuously and persistently related to the district attorney and the State Police that two persons to whom he had given transportation shot him and his wife. A complete description of said persons having been given by Roberts to the prosecuting officials and to date the said two felons have not been apprehended.

Six—That Roberts has not only a probable, but an absolute right to be delivered to his freedom.

Seven—That Roberts is not guilty of the crime with which he is illegally charged, that other persons unknown to him are guilty of the said crime and that Roberts should be relieved from imprisonment and unjust confinement.

Mrs. Roberts was shot twice through the head and Roberts once in the shoulder by a 32-caliber weapon. Authorities have been unable to find either the murder weapon or the exact scene where the shooting occurred.

Two Vehicles In Accident

A baker delivery truck and sedan were in collision on Route 209, west of Stroudsburg yesterday at 10:15 a.m., with damage estimated at $30 to both vehicles. There were no personal injuries or arrests, state police said.

James Sidoti, 23, of 228 W. St. Joseph St., Easton, had parked his truck to make a delivery, said Pfc. Edward Benesi, of Stroudsburg State police. The officer said the driver of the truck claimed he looked into the mirror and did not see any car approaching.

Benjamin Harrison Hoadly, 64, of Parkburg, W. Va., driver of the sedan sideswiped the truck in an effort to pass, police said. Damage to the truck was $10 and to the sedan $20.

State Highway Department Crews In Midst Of Heavy Repair-Construction Program

State Highway Department maintenance forces in Monroe County are pressing a major highway repair and construction program including improvement of the Shawnee road from the Minisink Hills postoffice to the Shawnee postoffice.

Sedan, Truck Sideswipe On Route 115

Wind Gap—The operator of a 1951 light sedan was slightly injured when his car and a truck sideswiped on Route 115, two miles north of this place at 5 p.m. yesterday, State police of the Brodheadsville barracks investigated.

Stanley Ralph Bares, 30, of Brooklyn, N.Y., was operating his car toward this place, when the machine hit a rough place in the highway at the Walz store and bounced off the road.

The catapulting car struck the 1952 truck owned and operated by Otto Obhof, 48, of Philadelphia. The car was damaged to the extent of $250 and the truck $150, police said. Both machines were able to operate on their own power after fenders were straightened.

Mr. Bares was treated for bruises and lacerations to his left leg at the office of Dr. R. H. Dreher, in this place. Mrs. Bares, who was in the car with her husband, escaped injury.

Mrs. Roberts was shot twice through the head and Roberts once in the shoulder by a 32-caliber weapon. Authorities have been unable to find either the murder weapon or the exact scene where the shooting occurred.

Bank Robber Charged With Slaying G-Man

New York (AP) — Bank robber Gerhardt A. Puff, 38, was arraigned in a hospital yesterday on a charge of murdering FBI Agent Joseph Brock in a hotel gun battle Saturday.

Puff, on the FBI's 10-most-wanted list, lay in bed reading a pocket-size murder mystery when officials arrived. His left leg, the thigh fractured by a bullet, was suspended in a pulley.

He showed no emotion as the complaint was read to him. U.S. Commissioner Edward W. McDonald held him without bail for a hearing Aug. 11.

Puff was captured in a blazing gun battle in the Hotel Congress as G-men sprang a trap. He caught Brock, 44, by surprise as the FBI agent stood behind a door covering elevators in the hotel lobby.

Puff emptied his .38 automatic at Brock and ran through the lobby. But, as other G-men closed in firing, he fell wounded on the sidewalk.

Edward Scheidt, agent in charge of the FBI's New York office, said ballistic tests would be made to determine whether Puff was felled by a bullet from Brock's gun. All bullets in the dead agent's gun had been fired.

Puff faces the death penalty if convicted.

Democratic Convention Delegate Pleased With Selection Of Stevenson, Sparkman

The Democratic party has selected the strongest ticket in Gov. Adlai Stevenson and Sen. John Sparkman in the opinion of Harold C. Edwards, Stroudsburg attorney and delegate from the 15th Congressional District, who returned home Sunday night.

Edwards predicts Stevenson will prove in his campaign "his outstanding ability and I'm sure he will have a great deal of appeal. I regard him as the best radio speaker since Roosevelt. He has an unusual mind and choice of words and an infectious smile."

"Sparkman has a great deal of appeal. He represents the South and is acceptable to the North," Edwards claims.

The medium of television created a new type of convention, Edwards said. He attributes this to the desire by most delegates to appear on TV and claimed the polling of states probably would have been avoided in many cases if it weren't for individual clamor for a personal video appearance.

"Take the State of Maine," the Stroudsburg attorney said. "With only 12 delegates they certainly could have polled their group in a short time, but recently a new cable was put through the New England States and they wanted to be seen."

"Theme of the convention was to secure pledges from the Southern states and get them definitely on record as supporting the Democratic ticket." The convention succeeded in getting written pledges from five of those states. There was no question of the state of Virginia. Only two were in doubt, Louisiana and South Carolina. But there were so many oral assurances they won't dare back down on the ticket. That, of course, was followed by the nomination of a Southerner, Sparkman. The South represents a large section of the Democratic party and should be represented," Edwards added.

Edwards claimed "Dick Russell could have had the vice presidency and I feel, in time, he'll be the candidate for the presidency. He picked up scattered votes through the West and North."

Regarding Pennsylvania's rharb in the split for Kefauver and Stevenson the local delegate said—"Dilworth was all for Kefauver. On that third ballot the voting actually was 54 and a half to 15 and a half. But Dilworth agreed to make it unanimous for Stevenson if Michigan and Minnesota would swing."

"It was remarkable the way Sam Rayburn presided for that stormy session. A misuse would have ended in a mob. Few could have done it."

Edwards, Everett Kent of Bangor, Rep. Francis E. Walter and Mrs. Helen Sutton, of Easton, all representing this district, were in attendance at the closing session Saturday, giving this three-county area solid representation, one of the few sections to make the boast. Most of the delegates were on their way home at that time and only empty seats greeted viewers.

Rider Injured When Bicycle Strikes Truck

Leonard Pace, 47, of Toledo, O., was injured about 8:35 p.m. yesterday when thrown from his bicycle which ran into the right side of a truck on Route 611, near Bartonsville. He was taken to Monroe County General Hospital and admitted suffering with lacerations of the left knee and contusions of the forehead.

Pfc. Emil Weber said that Jerome Friedman, of Scranton, operator of a truck for Pinemere Camp, was about to make a left turn off 611 to the side road leading to the camp when Pace ran into the vehicle throwing the cyclist to the ground.

The driver of the truck took the injured man to the hospital. Pace is a farm laborer, Officer Weber said, and was riding to the east from Chicago, when the accident happened.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Well—it's good weather for young folks who like to swim. As a matter of fact they've been spending so much time in the pools these hot afternoon that they've taken on a greenish tinge from the chlorine.

It was a good day to be in camp, too, though I doubt if we'll hear much from Weygand until the troop comes home next Sunday.

Might pass on a tip I learned from Al Stevenson, who has been counseling in a camp in Massachusetts. There they require each child to produce a letter addressed home as admission for dinner once a week.

That's about the only way I'd hear, from Pete, I fear. The Jordan and family, now in Switzerland, have been doing slightly better by the home folks. They're due in Cologne, Germany, in early August.

Well, one thing these vacationers are missing out on are the Little League and Little Bigger League regional contests. The way the phones were ringing last night to find out the scores, you'd have thought that football or basketball season were here.

Imagine bundling up for a football game. Imagine ice skating. Imagine anything that might make you forget our junior heat wave.

Firemens Carnival At Water Gap

Delaware Water Gap — The Delaware Water Gap Firemen's carnival will be held on the fire house grounds beginning this coming Thursday night, July 31, and will continue through Friday, and Saturday, August 1 and 2 with another series of carnival nights on August 7, 8 and 9 and August 14, 15 and 16.

Fire Chief, Fred Decker is general chairman.

There will be numerous games for which prizes will be awarded. The merchandise prizes given are of good quality, better than ever. On the final night, a grand award prize will be given.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the fire company is in charge of refreshments.

Mrs. Mengle Marks 93rd Birthday

Saylorsburg — Mrs. Harriet Mengle, of Saylorsburg, celebrated her 93rd birthday on Sunday with the congratulations from friends of an active lifetime.

In earlier years, she and her late husband, John, as cook and lumberman teamed up traveling through the lumber camps then so active, and she later cooked in boys and girls camps in surrounding communities.

Her cooking, too, won her many honors at the West End Fair where for years she specialized in sauerkraut.

However, her interests have not been confined to the kitchen. She served as organist at the Brodheadville church for 34 years.

She is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. H. R. Kline of Oxnego, her father having been an officer in the Civil War.

Mrs. Mengle has spent most of her life in Brodheadville before moving to Saylorsburg where she makes her home with her daughter, Mary, wife of Ralph Van Buskirk.

There were four children in the family including Harold Mengle of Buffalo, N. Y.; Hiram Mengle, of Delaware Water Gap, and Howard who was killed in World War One. She has 13 grandchildren and 15 great grandchildren.

Peach Pie Time Is Now, And Here Is The Recipe

Associated Press Food Editor — Take advantage of seasonal peaches and make your family a wonderful peach pie from the following recipe. The quick-cooking tapioca called for will thicken the good peach juices to a just-right consistency. Then another day try this baked peach tapioca pudding with its interesting texture.

FRESH PEACH PIE
Ingredients: 2½ to 3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, ½ to 1 cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 4 cups peeled pitted sliced fresh peaches, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, pastry for two-crust 9-inch pie, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine.

Method: Mix tapioca, sugar, salt, peaches, and lemon juice; let stand 15 minutes, or while preparing pastry. Line a 9-inch pie pan with half of the pastry rolled ¼-inch thick. Roll top crust ¼-inch thick, fold in half, and cut several 2-inch slits near the fold. Fill pie shell with peach mixture and dot with butter. Trim off excess pastry, allowing it to extend ¼-inch over rim. Fold edge of top crust under bottom crust and flute rim with fingers. Bake in hot (425°F.) oven 55 minutes, or until syrup boils with heavy bubbles that do not burst.

BAKED PEACH TAPIoca PUDDING
Ingredients: 2 cups sliced fresh peaches, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons firmly-packed brown sugar, 1/3 cup quick-cooking tapioca, ½ teaspoon salt, 2½ cups water, ¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind.

Method: Arrange peaches in greased 1½-quart baking dish. Dot with butter. Sprinkle with nutmeg and lemon juice. Set aside. Mix sugars, tapioca, salt, water and lemon rind in saucepan. Place over medium heat; cook and stir until mixture comes to a full boil. Pour over peaches. Cover and bake in moderate (375°F.) oven 20 minutes, or until peaches are tender. Stir pudding after removing from oven. Cover until ready to serve. Serve warm with plain or whipped cream. Makes 8 servings.

The condenser of a refrigerator should be cleaned once or twice a year with a stiff narrow brush or with the round-brush attachment of the vacuum cleaner. If the vacuum attachment is used the refrigerator itself should be disconnected from its electric outlet before the cleaning is done.

Never did I realize this more keenly than when I saw the motion picture "Lately I Look At," now going the rounds of neighborhood theaters. In one scene, Kathryn Grayson, portraying a Parisian designer, is shown wearing a smart, but very simple business dress, fashioned with high, round neckline and three-quarter sleeves. With a dress like that, the average woman would almost certainly wear a necklace or pin, matching earrings and, perhaps, a bracelet. But smart women are not average, and the few who can claim this title would probably have selected just what the Hollywood designer chose for Miss Grayson — a white eyelet ruffles. A smooth band of white with a froth of eyelet has been draped in a circular yoke effect around her shoulders, overlapping and fastening in front. Matching cuffs add the final crisp note.

In another scene, a wide, triangular satin scarf of what appears to be white polka dots on a maroon ground, glazes an otherwise plain dress with a neckline. Worn with its point in the center of the back, it is fastened low on the chest rather than up near the neck, and is knotted in front. A scarf like this is as old as the hills . . . but, worn in a new way, it proves interesting and eye-catching. Handkerchiefs are important too! On Sunday, the New York Journal-American devoted a full page in color to showing how all types of feminine attire can be made doubly smart by the imaginative use of an inexpensive, softly draped hanky.

At the moment, I am not necessary-every. Someday however the knack for being glorified by the "glorifiers" — a handbag, scarf, jewelry, hanky and glove — may come WHOOOSH — just like that, out of the blue. To encourage this, I have determined to watch all the incoming merchandise with greater awareness . . . to ask our buyers dozens of questions . . . and to try new things. Any woman can follow this procedure easily in her visits to Wyckoff's. As one fashion analyst points out, "A dress is a dress. It is smart or mediocre. But a pin or a scarf is your personality, amusing, clever, witty, or elegant. It is your 'Accent on Youth'."

Parents of the Pocono Playschool Coop are planning a rummage sale for Friday night, August 1, at 1110 West Main St., Stroudsburg. In the Scavo apartments, next to Stroudsburg High School.

The sale which will begin at 7 o'clock will be held by Wayne Posten, who has donated his services for the event. The committee has already collected a variety of household articles and antiques, and are asking anyone with articles stored in their attics which they no longer need to donate them for the sale.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to purchase new equipment for the Pocono Playschool Coop which has completed its first year of operation successfully. Organized last fall by a group of interested mothers, the Playschool features supervised play for children from three to five years old.

It is open to all children within that age group and is a non-profit organization.

Anyone interested in enrolling their children for next Fall's term or who wish to contribute articles for the rummage sale may call 2278-M or 3787 when members of the committee will call for donations.

Accessories are as necessary to a woman's costume as are punctuation marks to a well written paragraph. We all seem to sense this, and spend a great deal of time selecting unusual scarves, colorful pins and earrings, and beautiful handbags. But oddly enough there are only a few women who wear accessories cleverly. When we leaf through a fashion magazine or attend a style opening, we realize that choosing one's "exclamation points" is one thing . . . wearing them with a flair is another.

Never did I realize this more keenly than when I saw the motion picture "Lately I Look At," now going the rounds of neighborhood theaters. Governor Stevenson's Sister, Aristocrat, Who May Reign In The White House

By Mary Merryfield

Central Press Correspondent Chicago — To me one of the most thrilling figures in the Democratic convention is a woman who remains more or less in the background. She is a woman in fifties—a tall, slim, aristocratic looking woman with a pale face, blue eyes and heavy dark hair drawn back simply into a knot at the nape of her neck. She wears her evening clothes with the casual grace of someone who has been used to wearing formal clothes all her life—a woman who has a glint of humor to match her famous brother's easy charm that causes eyes to follow her wherever she appears.

Gov. Stevenson

This woman looks like the subject of a family portrait such as always appears over the fireplace in one of those movies which features a fine old family with charming women and distinguished men—men who served their country well. Her long neck, usually encircled with a short strand of exquisite pearls, the sloping shoulders and the poise of her head—have that same aristocratic air.

Actually, this midwestern woman is just that—a member of a family which founded towns, served their country in war and peace and built a tradition lasting through four generations. For this somewhat mysterious woman of the proud bearing is Mrs. Ernest Ives, better known as "Buffie" to her nationally known brother, Illinois' governor Adlai Stevenson.

In talking to Mrs. Ives at the dinner I was struck with the thrilling idea that here was a woman who symbolizes four generations of forebears who believe in serving their country.

Even then she assured me that Adlai would never refuse a real draft from the people at this convention. She believes in an inspired sort of way that Adlai must carry on the fine tradition of the Stevenson men—that he must follow in the footsteps of his grandfather, the first Adlai, who was a congressman and a vice president under President Grover Cleveland. Adlai Stevenson's sister, Mrs. Ernest Ives, seems charged with the feeling that her brother must carry on in the tradition of family service and answer the people's call to the White House.

Mrs. Ives herself married a man active in government service—a career diplomat and this has been a husband in many countries—Africa, Turkey, Ireland and South America. She and her husband are often in Blounting now and spend considerable time at the governor's mansion in Springfield.

Mrs. Ives is her brother's hostess whenever he requires one. This always includes the holidays, which Stevenson's three sons spend with him and at which time there are many gay parties. She believes in two kinds of social affairs—the very formal one in which everyone gets a chance to dress up and strict protocol is observed—and the small party for close friends who relax and enjoy themselves.

White House Hostess It is expected that Mrs. Ives will be the First Lady in the White House should her brother become President.

GENERAL ELECTRIC RANGES

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Mel Allen and staff brought nothing but bad news yesterday to those baseball fans in Monroe County and surrounding areas who remember Harry Schaffer as an ESSTC student and a pitcher with the Stroudsburg Poconos as the Detroit Tigers' pitcher who won the New York Yankees, 12-3. The lanky Harry made his first bid for a major league victory, only to be relieved after five full innings, with the Tigers riding high and dry on a 7-0 count.

Schaffer apparently had the shakes as he faced the Tigers in Briggs Stadium, walking the first two men, then fanning Johnny Hopp and Walt Dropo, only to load the bases with a walk to Johnny Groth. Steve Souchock hit an easy grounder to Gil McDougald, but the usually reliable third sacker booted the ball and one run scored. Matt Batts, the next batter, slapped the ball at second baseman Cal Segrist, but for some unknown reason the second sacker was out of position and two runs scored on the single.

Harry was the victim of three unearned runs in the first and of Dropo's home run bat in the third and again in the fifth, the second of which was hit with one out on the path. The seventh and final run, also in the fifth, scored against Schaffer was credited to the Tigers as earned, but came on the wings of slow infield play by the Yankees. The play enabled Souchock, who never broke a speed record in his life, to score from second base on an infield out.

Schaffer allowed eight hits, five of which came after the third frame. Harry walked four men and retired five batters via the strikeout route. Although charged with the defeat, the former hurler with the Poconos had the distinction of striking out the most batters of any of the four hurlers in the contest. Joe Ostrowski, who relieved Schaffer in the sixth, gave up two hits in two innings, while Bob Hogue, who hurled only one frame, was batted for five hits in that time. Neither Ostrowski or Hogue registered a strikeout, while Ostrowski gave up one walk.

Losing his first major league start thus forced Harry to be caught up in the losing streak which has plagued the league leading Yankees through this western trip. The Yanks have lost six of nine games played on the present tour. However, the Bronx Bombers still pace the pack by three games and there doesn't seem to be any immediate fear of Schaffer being shipped out again, as the Yanks are hurting for pitchers and Harry looked good enough in spots to stay with the Yankee Stadium tenants for the remainder of the present campaign.

Changing the subject at this point brings to mind the fact that Harold Stettler, who pounds a lineout for The Daily Record, was struck in the head by a stray golf ball on Saturday, while in the midst of a tough foursome match. However, instead of upsetting the long-ball hitting Stettler, the blow reportedly actually improved his game—might even say Stettler used his head to win the match. Harold was struck in the forehead by a stray shot that had taken only one bounce before striking the startled golfer.

Harry Warner continues to improve his batting at Evansville, of the Three-I League, now clipping the ball at a .376 pace after a very slow start in this department. Warner is a resident of Redders during the off season. Tomorrow we'll devote this space to a little chit-chat about the two Little League playoffs and the Little Bigger League contest featuring no less than five teams from our immediate area.

Tucker's, Eagles Gain Nods In Close Softball Battles

Tucker's Chevrolet and the Eagles scored victories in the Monroe County Softball League yesterday, the former edging Ronson, 11-10, at Stroudsburg Playground, while the Eagles picked up their 16th straight favorable nod at the East Stroudsburg Junior High school field, at the expense of Worthington Mower, 4-3.

Ronson saw a seven-run third inning go to waste, as Tucker's club overcame a 9-7 deficit with two runs in the fourth and the same number in the fifth, while the Ronson club's singleton in the fifth fell short of its mark.

Worthington Mower held a 1-0 edge at the end of the first inning, but the Eagles took the lead for keeps with two tallies in the second, then added to more in the fifth to more than balance two credited to Worthington Mower in the seventh.

Today's schedule calls for IAM and Kulp's Foundry to clash at the Stroudsburg Playground, while Tru-Matic and Union Printers cross bats at the East Stroudsburg Junior High school field.

Marciano Stops Matthews In Second Round

By Jack Hand
New York (AP)—Vicious "Rocky" Marciano crumpled Harry Matthews, the pride of the great northwest, with two crushing left hooks to the jaw last night to score a spectacular knockout win in 2:04 of the second round at Yankee Stadium.

Earning a September title shot at heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott, 27-year-old "Rocky," unbeaten in 42 straight fights, dumped Matthews flat on his back in his own corner—almost in the lap of his manager, Jack Hurley, with the two thundering blows.

The 29-year-old Matthews, from Seattle, unbeaten since 1943 was a bewildered expression on his pain-drawn face as he went down with his head against the ropes.

Gamely trying to gather his numbed senses, Matthews clawed at the ropes as he tried to pull himself off the deck. As the West Coast fighter started to rise, he collapsed over the bottom strand like a limp rag doll. Referee Ray Miller tolled off the final 10.

ton, Mass., drove to the attack from the opening bell. A scowling slugger, with mouth agape, the brawny son of a shoemaker beat a crushing attack on Matthews' jaw.

The crowd was announced as 31,118 with a gate of about $720,000. Much of the crowd arrived just before the main go.

Marciano weighed 187½ and Matthews 175. With an eight and one-half pound advantage in the weights, Marciano bullied the counter-punching Matthews around the ring with his wild, but numbing punches.

For the first minutes of this battle, fought in 85-degree heat, Matthews' sharp counters ripped to Marciano's body and head. Yet they never once slowed the attack of the aroused "Rocky."

The tipoff came midway in the first round when Harry the Kid stuck three straight jabs to Marciano's face and then caught him lunging in with a beautiful straight right to the jaw. The "Rock" from New England never blinked but continued his bull-like march.

Eastburg Little League Stars Win, 5-4

Stroudsburg Falls In Final Inning

East Stroudsburg passed the first test in its bid for a district Little League title yesterday, when the Eastburg contingent scored in the bottom of the sixth round to take the measure of Stroudsburg, 5-4, in a hotly contested ball game from start to finish.

King Beers tripped to right center field with one out in the last frame and then made a dash for the plate as Wexley Werkheiser banged the ball off pitcher Paul Frailey's glove. Frailey quickly recovered the ball and threw it to the plate to catcher Ronald Darr, who blocked the speeding Beers off the plate, but was unable to hold the throw. Before Darr could recover the ball, Beers fought his way to the plate with the winning run. Wild excitement then broke out at the East Stroudsburg field, among the 700 in attendance.

Larry Beescker made a sensational one-handed stab at the fence in right field to open the sixth and deprive Dick Wolslayer of a possible home run and certainly an extra base hit. However, the defensive game was wasted as the East Stroudsburg club came on to win.

Early Lead
East Stroudsburg opened a 3-0 lead at the end of the first inning and held the upper hand until the fourth, when the Stroudsburg club picked up four markers, as the visiting nine got to Beers for the first time. However, the home team came back to even the count in the bottom of the fourth and go on to win in the sixth.

The closeness of the contest is revealed in the fact that each team had six hits, each player walked two and struck out four batters.

East Stroudsburg is scheduled to clash with the Pocono Mountains League tomorrow, at the East Stroudsburg field. Pocono Mountains League fought its way into the second round of the Bethlehem Little League district.

The winner of Wednesday's clash, at East Stroudsburg will meet the victor in the Bethlehem-Slatington contest.

SAFE—"Chubby" Vaughn, Stroudsburg, slides safely into third base in the first inning of yesterday's game with East Stroudsburg, as Umpire Tom Sommers calls the play and third baseman George Felker attempts to make the tag. Vaughn reached base with a double in the first, but East Stroudsburg went on to win, 5-4.

Schaeffer No Match For Newhouser As Tigers Capture Fourth Game Of Series From Yankees

Detroit, (AP)—The lowly Detroit Tigers pulled the giant-killing act again yesterday and slapped down the leading New York Yankees—who only a week ago looked like near certain pennant winners—for the fourth time in five games, 12-2.

The lopsided loss came with the help of two homers by Walt Dropo and one by Steve Souchock—his third in the series—and veteran Hall Newhouser's seven hit pitching.

A crowd of 8,646 startled fans saw the Tigers slap New York with its sixth loss in nine games on this western road trip. The Tigers shelled Harry Schaeffer, making his first major league start, and two other pitchers for 15 hits.

Matt Batts and Al Foderoff each drove in two runs with their three singles. Souchock's two-run homer was his eighth of the season and eclipsed a four-run eighth inning spurge.

Dropo, who now has 18 homers, hit one with no one on base in the third inning and another in the seventh inning. Larry Hererra and Gil McDougald singled and Berra scored on Johnny Mize's double off the right field screen. Kal Segrist flied to right field and McDougald scored after the catch.

U.S. Swamps Russia In Basketball
Helsinki (AP)—America's giant basketball team smothered the highly touted Russian team yesterday in the Olympic tournament. In another game, Referee Vincent Farrell of Newark, N. J., was swayed by players and spectators and knocked unconscious.

The U. S. cagers beat the Soviets 86-58.

In the unofficial battle for team honors, the United States scored 44 points against only six for Russia to narrow the lead held by the Soviets. Russia, however, was still in front 50-25 to 42-0.

The United States grand slammen's springboard diving and won two yachting gold medals in its scoring spurge.

Russia never had a chance to upset the American basketball squad, composed chiefly of the first five of Kansas University and the Peoria Caterpillars. Big Bob Kurland was high scorer with 15 points and 10 came at the start of the game to take the heart out of the Russians.

Attack
The attack on Farrell, one of the best known American referees, came at the end of a game in which France defeated Uruguay 68 to 66.

First several Uruguayan players charged Farrell and then a stocky spectator rushed out and kicked him in the groin, flooring him. After receiving medical treatment Farrell said he believed he would be able to continue working in the tournament.

There was one tense moment in the game between Russia and the United States.

Big Clyde Lovellette of the United States and Otar Korkia of Russia, the Soviet's best player, fell to the floor in a scramble for the ball. When Lovellette seemed slow in rising, another Russian player, Kazis Petkajavichus, slapped him on the back.

Hornsby To Succeed Sewell As Reds' Pilot

Cincinnati, (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds have named Hornsby as their new manager to replace Luke Sewell who resigned earlier yesterday.

Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cincinnati Baseball club, announced from New York that Hornsby will be manager through the balance of the season and through 1953.

Take Over
Paul said Hornsby will take over the club when the Reds return to Crosley Field August 5 for a series with the Chicago Cubs.

Paul said Hornsby will continue scouting for the Reds in the meantime until taking over the club. Paul said that Luke Sewell will continue as manager of the Reds that closes tomorrow night.

Sewell said he quit "because when you don't win in baseball, the only thing to do is get out." The Reds won steadily in early season, driving into the first division in an inspired start. But they soon settled back into the second division and now are seventh, 26 full games behind the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers.

Sewell agreed to remain as manager of the club for the games in Philadelphia today and tomorrow to give Paul time to line up a new skipper. The Reds were idle yesterday after beating the New York Giants Sunday.

Sewell is the third National League pilot to step out since the 1952 season opened. First was Tommy Holmes at Boston and then Sawyer at Philadelphia. The American changes saw the departure of Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Browns and "Red" Rolfe of the Detroit Tigers.

Candidates Questioned By Alliance

Harrisburg, Pa. (AP)—Candidates for the 1953 Legislature were asked yesterday by the Lord's Day Alliance to make public their position on legalized gambling and the Sunday sale of liquor.

Rev. Melvin M. Forney, Philadelphia general secretary of the organization of church groups, told the candidates the information would be used in an election bulletin distributed to church people.

"We assure you," Rev. Forney said in a letter, "that our group is not a pressure group and will not under any condition resort to such."

"We are interested, however, not only in encouraging people to vote but in helping them to vote intelligently for the candidates of their choice."

Other questions asked the candidates included:

"Would you be in favor of lowering the restrictions governing the Sabbath Day to permit such sports as basketball, bowling, ice hockey, ice skating, etc., on Sunday?"

"Would you be in favor of extending beyond 6 p.m., or eliminating in its entirety, the curfew now controlling the playing of baseball or football on Sunday?"

The questionnaire also asked the candidates if they would favor legislation increasing the fine for operations of stores on Sunday.

West German Press Rapped By Hungarian Delegates To World Lutheran Assembly

Hannover, Germany, AP—Hungarian delegates to the World Lutheran Federation Assembly yesterday accused West German papers of telling lies about their Communist land. They vowed they would boycott the assembly's daily news conference until the statements were corrected.

The Hungarians also accused the Lutheran press office here of announcing they would appear at yesterday's news conference without first consulting them. Dr. Harold Oldag, the assembly's chief press officer, denied he had kept the Hungarians in the dark. He said he had talked with them yesterday morning and had been led to believe they would be on hand at the news conference.

More than 150 correspondents showed up at the conference after hearing from Oldag's office that the Hungarians would be there.

None of the five-man Hungarian delegation showed up, but they sent a heated statement for Oldag to read. It contained the charges against the West German press, but did not specify what the untruths were. It also touched other matters that have been irking the Hungarian delegates.

The statement indicated the Hungarians did not think much of the opening sermon delivered to the assembly last Friday by German Bishop Hanns Lilje.

In his sermon Lilje referred to Lutheran delegates from East European countries who had been prevented by Red authorities from attending the assembly and declared "no worldly power can tear asunder" the unity of the Lutheran church.

It will be sung by the world-famed Thomaner Chor of St. Thomas Church in Leipzig, where Bach was once cantor of the congregation. The choir will be directed by Prof. Dr. Guenter Ramin. There will also be organ music by the church music director Adalbert Schütz at the console of the oldest organ in Germany, located in St. Mary's Lutheran Church, Lippe. The organ was built in 1595.
